Catherine Connelly, Pam Hume, Ruth Hudson, Virginia Rondeau and 50 other "empty nesters" all agreed that they were fortunate to raise their families in Shaker Heights with its quaint, caring community. But when it came time to retire, they wanted to live in Chagrin Falls with the same feel of community. They all chose Hamlet Village to start their next adventure – an active retirement. At Hamlet Village, they enjoy a full-service retirement community without the large entrance fees, giving them control of their assets and their freedom...freedom to travel and enjoy life knowing that a gardener, chauffeur, chef and housekeeper are all taking care of their large condo-style apartments. Call Valerie to find out how you can enjoy an active retirement with more than 50 other former neighbors who have chosen to live at Hamlet Village, a full service continuing care retirement community in Chagrin Falls.

CEI/FirstEnergy Tree Trimming and Removal Policy in Shaker Heights

As CEI/First Energy (CEI) upgrades the City's electrical lines, it has agreed with City requests that tree crews abide by the following guidelines. No trees will be removed from private property until the steps outlined below have been taken:

1. CEI has talked personally with the resident; and
2. Either the tree must be removed for safety purposes (e.g. too close to pole so that access is blocked, or that the tree must be so severely trimmed for safety that it will be destroyed), or the resident agrees in writing to have the tree removed; and
3. The tree to be removed has been marked with paint so the resident knows exactly which tree is to be removed. (The full policy is available at shakeronline.com.)

Approximately two weeks before any work begins, residents will receive personal contact or a door hanger that includes the name and telephone number of the tree contractor. If a resident calls the contractor and does not receive a timely or satisfactory response, the resident should call CEI customer service, 800-589-3101. CEI will immediately direct all such calls to an operator.

Also available at shakeronline.com is a memo from the City to CEI confirming this agreement.

Shaker Night is First Neighborhood Night

The Cleveland Play House has selected Shaker Heights for the first of its Neighborhood Nights, reconnecting the theatre with Greater Cleveland communities. On March 25, Shaker residents are invited to attend a reception and a specially priced performance of Lisa Kron's comedy, Well.

Well, a one-act play, is equal parts moving, absurd, and hilarious. One of the two main characters was an activist who helped integrate her community – a theme that speaks directly to Shaker's own history.

Discounted tickets are $25 for adults and $10 for children ages 10 to 17 (not appropriate for children under 10) and includes the performance (matinee or evening), reception, and parking. To purchase tickets, call the Play House, 795-7000, and mention discount code: SHAKER.

Transportation for senior adults is available upon request. See page 71.

Memorial Day

Flag-Bearers: Report for Duty

Shaker is planning its annual salute to America's fallen heroes on May 29. A memorial ceremony at the flagpole in front of City Hall will be followed by the traditional parade.

If you know a serviceman or woman willing to carry the flag for his or her branch of the service, in uniform, please pass the word. Flag bearers volunteering to carry an Air Force, Army, Coast Guard, Marines, or Navy flag, call Sandra Blue 491-1354.

Details for the day's observance will be posted at shakeronline.com and the next issue of Shaker Life.

First time Homebuyers:

Be a savvy buyer in today's market

Learn from the experts about:

- Open houses, working with real estate agents and agency representation;

Wi-Fi Comes to Shaker

Waiting for your skater to finish her lesson? Pull up a chair, get yourself a hot cup of coffee and surf the web! Looking forward to a cool ice cream and a bit of a sit-down over at Baskin-Robbins this summer? That's right, bring your PDA and check your email!

Internet access is now available at Thornton Park, common areas among the shops located on the north side of Chagrin in Shaker Town Center, and in City Hall Council Chambers. The wireless access was installed in January and can be accessed through any device (computer, PDA or cell phone) with wireless capability.

Plan Ahead: Porch Railings Required by January 1, 2007

An ordinance passed by Council in 2000 requires perimeter railings on all porches, decks or flat roofs accessible by a door effective January 1, 2007.

The ordinance was the result of both architectural and safety concerns. It was presented to and discussed with the public on several occasions prior to enactment. The ordinance brings the City into compliance with the State Building Code, which requires a railing where there is a door and access to a flat roof.

The railing is an architectural trim detail seen throughout the community. Over time many railings have deteriorated and been removed. The Architectural Board of Review approved several designs for replacement railings. Copies of the approved designs are available in the Planning Department at City Hall, and may be included with replacement proposals.

The installation of such railings requires a Building Permit before any work is started. A penalty fee is charged for work completed without a permit. Please contact the Building Department at 491-1460 for questions regarding permitting and construction details.

Railing replacement procedures:

- Bring a color photograph of existing conditions to the Planning Department for staff review.
 - Railings may be constructed of only the following: cedar, cypress or redwood; treated lumber is an unacceptable exterior trim material.
 - Any proposals for materials other than those listed above require review by the Planning Department, and may be subject to review and approval by the Architectural Board of Review.
- The minimum requirements:
- Minimum 36" from deck to the top rail.
 - Minimum 42" from deck to post top.
 - Spindles are to be placed no more than 4" apart.
 - The installation of a post cap is required. Please submit a cap detail if it does not match the drawing.

- Railings must be painted or opaque stained complimentary or matching the house or trim color.

Please contact the Planning Department at 491-1430 for questions concerning design, materials, and finish.

Re-accreditation for Police and Fire Departments

They've done it again! The Shaker Heights Police Department was awarded reaccreditation status by the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies, Inc. (CALEA) in January. It was the first department in Northern Ohio to receive accreditation from CALEA in 1989, and has been awarded reaccreditation each time it reapplied. The process involves rigorous on-site inspection of every function of the department.

The Shaker Heights Fire Department was also evaluated recently by the Commission on Fire Accreditation International (CFAI). A recommendation for re-accreditation was made to the CFAI board, which typically follows the assessor's evaluation. Final approval will be granted in March.

In 2000, Shaker's Fire Department became the first and only department in Ohio to be awarded Accredited Agency status. Accreditation identifies and acknowledges departments that provide viable, cost-effective and well-managed services to their communities.

50-acre Warrensville/Van Aken Commercial Redevelopment in Motion

City Council has designated a 50-acre area in the Warrensville/Van Aken (WvA) commercial district as the focus of the City's next redevelopment plans. Following the path set forth in the 2001 Strategic Investment Plan (SIP), WvA is phase II in the City's ongoing reinvestment efforts to improve its commercial districts, increase housing options, and strengthen the tax base. Phase I included improvements and additions to the Shaker Town Center area, (including the new Avalon Station lofts and town homes) and the new condos and town homes at Sussex Courts and South Park Row.

The resolution invites developers from across the country, who have created exciting mixed-use projects elsewhere, to look at what is available here and share their visions with the City. Since the centerpiece of the site, the OfficeMax campus, is for sale along with several other commercial properties, this is an opportune time to solicit investor interest. Response to an ad placed in the industry-leading publication, Urban Land, is already strong.

Interested parties note that in addition to Shaker's national reputation, other attractive features of this area include: its demographics - especially the density and significant income - of households within a three-mile radius; its position at a major, well-known crossroads; its role as a major mass transit transfer point and light rail terminus; its location near public and private golf courses and public park land; its walking distance from a dense residential district of mid-rise apartments and condos; and its significant daytime office population with growth potential. This will be a 5-10 year project.

Watch for more details about the process as it moves forward, including public input, in the July issue of Shaker Life.

- Shaker Heights High School graduates Rob Emrich and Matt Youngner, profiled in the September/October, 2003 Shaker Life magazine, founded Road of Life, an organization that provides cancer prevention education to children. Emrich and Youngner first achieved notoriety by organizing the 2003 Bicentennial Walk, in which Emrich walked from Cincinnati to Cleveland to raise awareness and money for cancer research and prevention. They now plan to take their original cancer prevention curriculum nationwide within a year. But, says Youngner, the organization has not forgotten the roots of its success: "We have always enjoyed enormous support from people in Shaker Heights, and it will be a huge landmark for our expansion that we will be able to bring our programs home."

Geraniums in Bloom

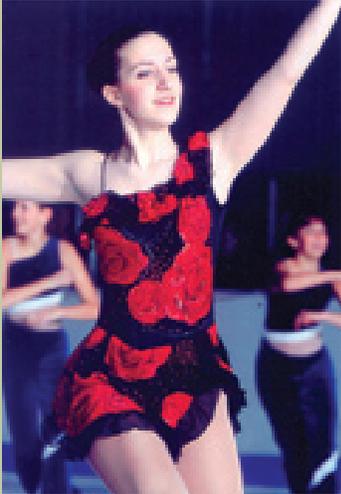

A 27-year Shaker Heights tradition – the Shaker Heights High School PTO Geranium Sale – features flowers from Merkel's of Mentor. Beautify your home and garden with geranium and New Guinea impatiens flats (six pots per flat); hanging baskets of either geraniums, New Guinea impatiens, or petunias; and spikes and vinca vines and fountain grass patio pots, already planted.

Orders must be placed in advance. Forms are available at shaker.org/parents/pto. Pick-up is at the high school on Friday, May 19 from 5 to 8 p.m. in the South Gym, and Saturday, May 20 from 8 a. m. until noon in the South Gym. Call Holly Wang at 991-8248 with questions. This is the year's major fundraiser for the SHHS PTO.

A Spring Ice Spectacular Not to be Missed

Your community's newly packaged ice show will be long on high-tech, professional quality lighting and production values. A fast-paced and exciting show, America the Beautiful will feature over 150 participants of Shaker's Learn-to-Skate program, the Shaker Figure Skating Club (SFSC) and the United States Figure Skating Association (USFSA) in a travelogue of the United States.

Show will be held May 5 and 6, and ticket sales begin in April. Buy early - the best seats go quickly! Watch the City's website, shakeronline.com for box office dates and hours and ticket prices.

Field Hockey Team Looking to Ink a Deal

Hockey players have goals – this summer it's a trip to Holland to compete in a field hockey tournament. The Shaker Heights Varsity Field Hockey team is working with FundingFactory® Recycling Program to recycle ink jet and laser print cartridges and cell phones to earn cash.

To lend a hand to this environmentally oriented project, bring your cartridge and cell phone discards to drop-offs located at Thornton Park, 20701 Farnsleigh or the Shaker Community Building, 3450 Lee Road. For more information, call Leslye Arian at 991-1860.

Computer Round-Up in April

Cool new computers run circles around older equipment, but that doesn't mean you should toss the dinosaurs. Residents may recycle old computer equipment by bringing it to the Shaker Heights Public Works Service Yard at 15600 Chagrin Boulevard on April 15, 16, 22 and 23 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The following items are acceptable: computers, monitors, keyboards, software, printers, modems, and cell phones.

Give the Gift of Shaker Life

Shaker Life magazine is now available by subscription to non-residents. A one-year, non-refundable subscription costs $21 (cash or check). To inquire about subscribing or giving a subscription, contact Kim Golem, 216-491-1419.

Top Seasonal Reminders

- Spring is here! Time for yard clean-ups. During the month of April, you (or your landscaper) may place leaves, grass clippings, hedge trimming, and garden waste on tree lawns, not in the street, for pickup. (Grass clippings and leaves must be kept separate from brush.) To be sure your pick-up is prompt and efficient, visit the City website, shakeronline.com for guidelines about yard waste disposal.

- Beginning May 1, grass clippings, leaves and other yard waste must be placed in specially marked bags (with the Shaker logo) and placed with rubbish in the rear yard for regular collection. Also beginning May 1, only brush will be picked up from the tree lawn. Be sure your landscaper is also aware of these restrictions.

- When using Shaker grass bags, remember to put out your door hanger as a signal to grass crews. There is a 40-pound weight limit per bag. Yard waste bags are available at City Hall, Thornton Park, the Service Center, and from local merchants for $1 each. The price includes the cost of the bag and the collection and disposal of the material at a commercial composting site. At no time may leaves, grass, rubbish or brush be placed on center strips, park areas or in the street.

And Don't Forget...

BICYCLE LICENSES: Licenses will be sold from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday March 18, and April 8 in the Police Department lobby, 3355 Lee Road. Cost is $5 (re-issued licenses are 50 cents); please bring the owner's Social Security number, which will be recorded on the application. For children, a parent's number can be used.

BLOCK PARTY REQUESTS: Register at least two weeks in advance to close streets for block parties, races or parades. For more details and to send an online email registration (preferred), visit the City website, shakeronline.com.

GRASS ORDINANCE: Grass may not be taller than 6 inches. Tall grass and weeds which are spreading or maturing seeds, or are about to do so, including ragweed, goldenrod, poison ivy, or poison oak are declared nuisances.

SEWER BACKUP PREVENTION: Do not flush paper towels or commercial wipes (baby, household, automotive, etc.) down toilets; do not wash grease down sinks or toilets - put into a container, allow to harden, then include with trash. Do not place trash, debris or grass clippings in sewers located along street curbs.

LANDSCAPER REGISTRATION: Landscapers, tree maintenance and removal contractors must register with the Building Dept. ($100 fee).

Neighborhood Grant Program

Applications for the 2006 Neighborhood Grant program are now available at City Hall and at the Shaker Community Building, 3450 Lee Road, as well as on the City website, shakeronline.com. Projects that address the goal of improving housing stock will receive priority in the award process.

The 2005 Neighborhood Grant program awarded five grants to neighborhood groups whose projects met the goals of improving the housing stock of the community, or improving public places. The grants were awarded in April 2005; project work was completed during the summer and fall months.

The deadline for 2006 applications is March 31 at 12 noon. For more information, call Jacqueline Patterson Mansion at 491-1333.

Homeowner Tip:

Start planning annual home improvement projects by contacting contractors now, before they are too busy to return your calls. City Rehab Specialists are available at 491-1370 to help you plan your project, or visit the Resource Center in the Shaker Community Building for ideas.

New Program Benefits Two-Family Property Owners

The City encourages responsible management and reinvestment in its two-family houses, an important segment of Shaker's homes. A new program will offer financial incentives for home improvement to new or existing owner-occupants who complete City sponsored landlord training. The training will cover everything from tenant screening and property management to fair housing and financial planning. For more information, call Jacqueline Patterson-Mansion, Department of Neighborhood Revitalization, at 491-1333.

Landlord Tip:

Be consistent in screening and interviewing techniques! You don't want to give the impression that you have given a tenant preferential treatment. For example, if you ask a prospective tenant to show you a driver's license, make sure you ask all prospects to do so.

Landlord Quiz Part I

(Not to be construed as legal information; for informational purposes only. Consult an attorney for specific legal questions.)

If tenant is late with rent, you can charge late fees if

- a) payment is more than five days late.
- b) payment is with an insufficient check.
- c) lease contains a provision regarding late fees.

Which criterion is most important to qualify a potential tenant?

- a) Appearance and demeanor.
- b) Vehicle prospect drives.
- c) Credit and verified references.
- d) First impressions.

Landlord Training 2006

The Neighborhood Revitalization Department will soon introduce a comprehensive training program for landlords. New buyers and current owners will be eligible for the affordably priced training, which will provide current and essential information for successful property management. Learn more about the Ohio Landlord-Tenant law, fair housing, how to minimize risk, and basic home improvement tips.

Certified Shaker Properties

Certified Shaker is a program that recognizes rental properties that meet or exceed the City of Shaker Heights' standards of excellence, and encourages rental property owners to make their properties the best they can be.

Congratulations to the new Certified Shaker property owners, listed below. These listings represent some of the best rental properties the City has to offer. For a complete list of certified properties and to find out about vacancies, call 491-1332 or check the City's website, shakeronline.com. To learn more about becoming certified, call 491-1370.

SHAKER HEIGHTS

Library's "Healthy, Wealthy & Wise" programming features an insurance talk, a networking fair, and Civil War slide presentation.

Healthy – The Insurance Industry & Women's Changing Health Needs

Heather Campbell of Structured Employment Benefits of Ohio will speak on the changing health insurance industry and women's health issues at 7 p.m. Thursday, March 9 at the Main Library. Find out about insurance benefits as they apply to women's health issues.

Wealthy – Networking Fair: Is Direct Sales for You?

Wednesday, April 26, 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., residents are invited to a Networking Fair on the second floor of the Main Library. Members of the Direct Sales Association, including representatives from The Pampered Chef, Avon, Bead Retreat, At Home America, Do-Re-Mi and You, PartyLite, Wild Tree Herb, and more, will speak informally about their products and be available to talk to individuals about sales and income producing opportunities.

Wise – Clevelanders and the Civil War

Tuesday, April 25, 7:30 p.m. at Bertram Woods Branch, Marjorie Wilson will present a slide lecture about the Civil War era citizens who are buried at Lake View Cemetery. Beginning at the end with a picture of the gravesite, Wilson tells the interesting stories of Clevelanders in the Civil War.

For the past five years, Wilson has been an interpretative guide at the Garfield Memorial, where she is also a docent leading tours of Lake View Cemetery. Wilson's presentation is a result of her interest in Lake View Cemetery and encouragement from members of the Northeast Ohio Civil War Round Table.

Become a Poster Child: Help the Library Celebrate National Library Week!

The library will celebrate National Library Week April 2-8, by creating 11-by-17-inch "Read" posters with residents' pictures. Help the library by signing up for a time to have your picture taken and added to a Read poster.

Photographs will be taken the week of March 13-17. All ages are welcome and friends and families can choose to be photographed as a group. Sign up for a time to be photographed at the Information Desks at either library. For more information, please call the PR Department at 367-3005.

Spring Book Discussions at Main Library

How often have you read a book and had no one to discuss it with? Consider joining one of the library's many book discussion groups.

If mysteries thrill you, join the 7:30 p.m. Tuesday March 14 discussion of Cypress Grove, James Sallis' book on a bizarre ritual killing. Come back at 7:30 p.m. April 11 to talk about Don't Look Back, Karin Fossum's thriller that probes into the relationships and secrets from the victim's life.

If business is your bag, read The Rise of the Creative Class by Richard Florida and discuss it at 7:30 p.m. April 12 at the Main Library.

Saturday, March 11, 2 p.m., discuss When Love Calls, You Better Answer, by Bertice Berry.

Saturday, April 8, 2 p.m., residents can discuss The Rapture of Canaan, Sheri Reynolds' book about what happens after a prayer partner becomes pregnant.

Tuesday morning book discussions are held at 10 a.m. at Main Library. March 14 readers will discuss The Jane Austen Book Club by Karen Fowler and on April 11, share the heart-warming and humorous writing in Frank McCourt's Teacher Man.

Tuesday evening book discussions are fine options for those who work. 7:30 p.m. March 28, discuss the complex friendship in The Kite Runner by Khaled Hosseini and on April 25, talk about the sci-fi love story, The Time Traveler's Wife by Audrey Niffenegger.

Take time to read and make a date to discuss the book with others. For more information or for a list of book discussion books to borrow for your book group, call the Main Library Fiction Desk.

Poetry Not in the Woods Programs in March and April

Poetry Not in the Woods, one of the longest running poetry series in Northeast Ohio, continues this spring. Residents can meet a variety of poets and hear their original work. At 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 29, the program will feature poets John Panza, Max Stark and r.a. washington.

John Panza is an assistant professor of English at Cuyahoga Community College's Eastern Campus, where he teaches poetry, writing and humanities and serves as Tri C East's honors coordinator. He co-directs East's Annual Local Poetry Dialogue, which features local and regional poets reading and discussing their work and has appeared on George Bilgere's WordPlay radio show several times. He is published in Whiskey Island and recently served on the Heights Arts' Poet Laureate Commission. He also plays drums in the noise rock band, Humphry Clinker.

Max Stark was born in Lucca, Italy to an Italian Catholic mother and American Jewish father, but was raised in Cleveland, Ohio. He earned a B.S. degree from Miami University and taught high school history and coached football in Ohio and Colorado. He earned his master's degree in English from Cleveland State University with a concentration in poetry. He served as an adjunct faculty member at CWRU, teaching strategic planning and organizational development and completed postgraduate training in Organization and Systems Development at the Gestalt Institute of Cleveland. He has been writing poetry for 30 years. A number of his poems have been published in U.S. journals and have been part of stage performances at the Cleveland Play House. In addition, he has studied improvisational acting and has produced multicultural theater.

r.a. washington lives in the historic Tremont area and is the author of six books of poetry, including Baldwin Notes, and three novels. His most recent book, Huebris, is published on Cleveland-based Publish Or Perish Press. He is editor of an arts zine, Fairtrade, A Journal for Progressive World Art, and is an Artist Educator/Curricula Writer for Progressive Arts Alliance in Cleveland. He runs a co-op book and music store entitled Viva Libre, which is located in the Inside Outside Gallery in Tremont. Washington is currently working on a new novel and finishing a biography on Harlem-born writer, James Baldwin.

Monday, April 24, 7 p.m., hear poets Joshua Gage, Fred Wright and Gina Tabasso.

Joshua Gage officially took the monastic vow of poetry last year with the publication of his chapbook, Deep Cleveland Lenten Blues. A member of the Deep Cleveland Tribe of Poetry, Gage can be found in his purple bathrobe on the second Friday of every month at Borders Books in Strongsville, hosting or supporting the Deep Cleveland Poetry Hour. He teaches at Tri-C West, and is currently pursuing a master's degree in Creative Writing from the Low-Residency Program at the Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics at Naropa University.

Gina M. Tabasso has an M.A. in English and is the Associate Editor of Grasslands

Review. She has won numerous awards and has been published in Mangrove, The Common Review, Upstairs at Duroc, The MacGuffin, Mid-American Review, Slant, Blue Mesa Review, Pavement Saw, and many others. Gina earns her living as a group managing editor for three machinist and welding trade magazines. She loves to ride her thoroughbred horse and to belly dance.

Fred Wright is an assistant professor of English at Ursuline College. He writes under the pen name of Wred Fright and his fiction leans to the humorous, as evidenced by his first novel The Pornographic Flabbergasted Emus (ULA Press, 2006), about a hapless garage rock band. He is a member of the Underground Literary Alliance, an organization of zine writers. He has written for the Cleveland Free Times, Cleveland Scene, Zine World, Go Metric, and Fightin' Fun Comics. Dr. Wright's stories can be found in the anthologies Punch and Pie (Gorsky Press, 2003) and The Bukowski Hangover Project (Poison Candy/Sisyphus Press, 2003). His website is www.wredfright.com – and he loves libraries.

Library Seeks Entries for 7th Annual Barbara Luton Art Competition

The Library seeks entries for its 7th Annual juried Art Competition from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Friday, March 10 and from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, March 11. Entries will be accepted in the Main Library Boardroom.

The competition is open to all visual artists, 18 years of age and older. All works must be original, two-dimensional, appropriately framed with a wire attached for hanging. Work not suitably framed will not be considered. The final decision in all cases rests with the jury. The non-refundable entry fee is $20 for up to two entries. Checks should be made payable to Shaker Heights Public Library.

The winning entry will be purchased for the library's permanent art collection for an amount not to exceed $1,000. Pieces exhibited must be for sale and 15 percent of sales made during and one month following the exhibit will be donated to the Barbara Luton Art Fund. There is also a First Place cash prize of $200, a Second Place cash prize of $100, and a Third Place cash prize of $50. Applications are available at the Information Desks at both libraries or at www.shakerlibrary.org.

Main Library Offers Free Flicks in March

Thanks to generous underwriting from the Friends of the Shaker Library, which pays the public performance rights to show films, the library can show new releases free. Movies begin promptly at 6:30 p.m.

THURSDAY, MARCH 2, the revolutionary Broadway musical Rent, comes to the library's big screen in Columbia Pictures PG-13 rated film. Rosario Dawson, Taye Diggs, Wilson Jermaine Heredia and Jesse L. Martin star as a ragtag group of bohemians struggling with AIDS, poverty, drugs, illness – and just trying to pay the rent.

THURSDAY, MARCH 16, watch Good Night, and Good Luck. George Clooney directs and David Strathairn and Patricia Clarkson star in this PG-rated drama about CBS anchorman Edward R. Murrow's conflict with Senator Joseph McCarthy and his communist witch-hunts.

Library Begins Series of CelebrASIANS with Program on India

In March, the library will begin a series of celebrations focusing on countries in Asia, including India, China, Vietnam and Japan. The series begins 2-4 p.m. Saturday, March 18 with the celebrASIAN: Passport to India.

Discover India at this family program featuring a presentation on the country and culture, as well as performances highlighting Indian music and dance. Enjoy sampling tea and snack on Punjabi Mix, a spicy Indian snack.

Siva Pennathur and Dr. Ramasamy Sakthivel provide information about the country and the culture of India, past and present, and include a little history and culture and their comments about the Indian experience of living in America.

Vocalist Shuruti Raghavan Ervin performs classical Indian music; violinist Anitha Sakthivel plays Indian Carnatic music, the classical music of India based on Hindu traditions, and Akila Raghavan performs the classical dance of India—The Bharata Natyam.

The program is free and reservations are requested by calling the Main Library at 991-2030 beginning March 4.

Library Offers Free Computer Classes

The Library offers a variety of classes to teach residents computer skills or to train them in specific software applications. Classes range from teaching basic mouse skills to instruction on how to use Microsoft Word, Excel and PowerPoint software and how to build a web page.

Main Library is closed Easter Sunday, April 16.

Shaker Home Resource Guide

Along with top-quality education, Shaker Heights is defined by idyllic tree-lined neighborhoods and well-kept homes. Potential homeowners and renters who visit for the first time are always impressed by the attention to detail evident in Shaker's residential real estate.

Along with the pleasure of living in one of the City's famously beautiful homes comes the hard but gratifying work of maintenance. The City, often in partnership with other organizations and local banks, offers a significant number of programs to help homeowners and potential homeowners keep Shaker Heights' neighborhoods beautiful.

Relocation

Judy Steehler 491-1337
Betsy Williams 491-3196

Shaker's relocation service is part of the Communications & Outreach Department. Community information specialist Judy Steehler and her colleague Betsy Williams work with realtors to make moving to Shaker Heights as hassle-free as possible. Steehler and Williams and their trained volunteers also work directly with some 200 prospective home buyers and renters a year. On average, 44 percent of those 200 prospects buy or rent in Shaker.

Shaker's outreach specialists also direct long-distance visitors to the Relocation section of the City's website for a cyber City tour and streaming video. Prospects looking for realtor help also find it on the web under the Top-selling Agent section; tenants looking for the best rental properties Shaker has to offer can preview Certified Shaker properties on the website.

Rental

Certified Shaker 491-1333

Certified Shaker assists renters by pointing them to the best rental properties in the City. Owners of rental property that has been certified receive free marketing assistance, including promotion at shakeronline.com and in Shaker Life magazine. City staffers show rental units to out-of-town prospects.

The City offers all rental property owners discounted tenant screening services, and free technical and decorating assistance to maximize the potential of their rental units. A new landlord training program will begin this year.

Beautification & Restoration

Housing Rehab Specialists
Wesley Walker 491-1356
James Bell 491-1371

Two rehab specialists and a Resource Center located at 3450 Lee Road provide free technical and financial assistance to homeowners. The Center is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Services include:

- Building code and permit information.
- Housing preservation information.
- Information on roofing, windows, masonry, painting, electrical, and landscaping.
- Technical magazines and videos, and construction cost estimating calculators.

In addition, a popular web resource is a list of contractors registered with the City. The list includes general contractors, masons, plumbers, electricians, painters, sewer contractors, HVAC, asphalt and concrete contractors, and landscapers. The list is updated monthly.

Planning Department

491-1433

The Planning Department, located at City Hall, 3400 Lee Road, offers information on specialty contractors and building design guidelines. It has various helpful publications as well as information on landmarks and the City's Architectural Board of Review. The department supplies zoning information on popular housing upgrades such as additions, air conditioning, fences, and inground pools. Home businesses are allowed in Shaker - guidelines are available from Planning and online.

Specialty Contractors

- Wood roofs.
- Slate roofs.
- Tile roofs.
- Stucco repair.
- Wood siding repair.
- Window restorations – lead and wood.
- New wood windows.
- Cleaning of historic masonry.

Design Guidelines

- Architectural Board of Review design guidelines (online).
- Landmark Commission design guidelines.
- Window standards (available online).
- Single-family infill housing design guidelines.
- The Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Rehabilitation.

Publications

- Shaker Heights Fences.
- Shaker Heights Commercial Design Guidelines
- The Van Sweringen Influence, Shaker Heights.
- Shaker Village Colors.

Landmarks & the Architectural Board of Review

The Planning Department has a list of local Landmark properties, properties within the local Shaker Square Historic District, maps of the local historic district and National Register District within the City, and procedures for designating landmarks or applying for a Certificate of Appropriateness.

Information pertaining to the Architectural Board of Review also is in the Planning Department. This includes technical assistance on any exterior change to a property, procedures for applying to the ABR, sample drawings, and zoning considerations.

Zoning

- Fence, garage, pool, air conditioning regulations (online).
- Home occupations (online).

Neighborhood Housing Services of Greater Cleveland, 458-4663 ext. 19, provides free homeownership education, including the counseling, services and training needed to purchase, rehabilitate, and maintain a home. Those who have become delinquent on their mortgage payments get help from NHS counselors who assess current financial situation and develop a suitable plan of action.

Housing Inspection

Inspections are conducted on a regular basis to ensure that residential properties are maintained to high community standards.

Rental properties receive an interior/exterior inspection every three years and exterior inspections of owner-occupied properties are made every five years. Complaint inspections are conducted on an as-needed basis.

Owners of rental property must annually obtain a certificate of occupancy.

Sellers are required to obtain a point-of-sale inspection and to present that report to any prospective buyer before entering into a purchase agreement. If all violations listed on a point of sale inspection are not corrected prior to transfer of title, an escrow account must be established and funds equal to 150 percent of the estimated cost of repairs must be held in escrow. Funds are released from escrow when the City verifies correction of violations.

The City offers a number of grant programs to help correct code violations. These include a free paint program and an exterior maintenance program that are offered to income-qualified owner occupants living south of Van Aken; a Go Green program can help improve energy efficiency; and a senior program helps residents 62 and older with grants of up to $2000, depending on household income.

Home-based Business Opportunities

Shaker has 1,503 two-family homes, or "doubles," which represent about 12 percent of the City's housing stock. Many home buyers and small business owners are transforming Shaker's two-family homes into exceptional investments as convenient workplaces. While concentrated in the Lomond, Fernway, and Moreland neighborhoods, two-families are in virtually every area of the City. Winslow Road consists entirely of two-family homes.

Running a business from a two-family may have tax advantages. Check with an accountant to find out how this might work.

Well-maintained two-family homes see $750 to $950 in monthly rent for first-floor units, and between $1,100 and $1,500 for upper units. In many cases rent covers the mortgage on a two-family home.

Financing

Fund for the Future of Shaker Heights 491-1457

The Fund for the Future provides low-interest loans to home buyers who will help sustain Shaker's racially diverse neighborhoods. The loans are for down payment assistance.

The following requirements and loan features apply only to existing single-family and two-family homes.

- The home must be in a neighborhood where the purchase will enhance the neighborhood's racial diversity.
- The home must be owner-occupied.
- The purchaser must contribute a minimum of 5 percent of the down payment.
- The Fund will match up to 10 percent of the purchase price to a maximum of $12,000.
- The interest on the loan is half of what National City Bank charges for a 30-year 0-point fixed mortgage.
- The loan is repaid over seven years, with no prepayment penalty.

Loans on newly constructed single-family homes are repaid over 10 years. A minimum three percent of the down payment must be provided by the borrower.

Prospective borrowers must apply in person, by appointment. Documents necessary for the meeting include a signed purchase agreement, a first-mortgage lender application, and a legal description of the property.

First-time Fund for the Future borrowers also are eligible for grants for home improvements.

Visit shakeronline.com for more home resource info.

Purchase/Refinance and Rehab Loans also are available through the City. When investing in an older home, new home owners often need to make an initial investment for both the purchase and for renovation. Owner-occupants can borrow up to 90 percent of the combined cost of purchasing and upgrading a single- or two-family property within the city, and receive a grant of up to 10 percent of the cost of remodeling work. 491-1370.

The Heritage Home Loan Program, administered by the Cleveland Restoration Society, provides technical assistance and home improvement loans for single and two family houses that are at least 50 years old.

There are no income restrictions and projects can include anything from new roofs, painting, landscaping, porch repair, additions, window repair, driveways, storm windows, and kitchen and bath renovations. Loans range from $3,000 to $150,000. The terms include a 3.5 percent home improvement loan over 10 years. 216-426-3106

The Home Enhancement Loan Program (HELP) offers a loan for a five-year period at three percent below market rate, which can be used for correcting code violations, making upgrades, or for maintenance. 491-1370.

Fifth Third Bank offers Shaker residents a 15-year loan of up to $30,000 at a five percent interest rate. Loans can be used to correct exterior or interior code violations, carry out exterior enhancements, or to upgrade mechanical systems. 491-1370.

Neighborhood Housing Services of Greater Cleveland offers a second mortgage program for home repairs. The program comes with more technical assistance than an average bank loan. NHS provides budget counseling, help with the estimates, itemizes and bids the project out to qualified contractors, and provides construction management. Neighborhood Housing Services, 458-4663 ext. 24.

Shaker Home Landscaping

Landscaping and real estate pros explain how to get the most out of your yard, whether you are planning to enjoy it yourself or put your home on the market.

Maybe you've seen a yard like this on the way to work, shopping, or school. Maybe you even pull into its driveway every night: Well-kept, but a bit...tired. The pachysandra is staging a hostile takeover of the anemic lawn. The sandstone walk leading to the front door is buckling here, crumbling there. Overgrown yew bushes and rhododendron are crushed up against the house, obscuring the first-floor windows in a relentless climb to the second floor. Under the corner oak, whose roots are undermining the home's foundation, a few leaves cling stubbornly to scraggly, winter-burned azaleas. In the back, a rusty chain-link fence bounds a hard-packed, poorly drained patch of weed-choked grass that floods each spring. Misplaced conifers, recently beheaded by the electric company, mark the property line.

This yard was lovely in its heyday, but after 60 or 80 years, it's time for a make-over.

Fortunately, there are landscaping solutions to fit everyone's time, budget, and personal taste. From the simple addition of some flowering plants and shrubs, to a full-scale new design and installation, owners of historic Shaker Heights houses can enhance the enjoyment, value, and curb appeal of their homes.

Area landscape and real estate professionals say many of their Shaker clients have faced yard problems exactly like those described above. Here are some of their solutions.

Out: Boring, overgrown plants near the home's foundation (yews, rhododendrons, etc.).

In: A variety of properly pruned evergreen and deciduous shrubs and trees, in beds located throughout the property.

Often plants are put in without consideration for their mature size, explains Jim Freireich of Eastside Landscaping. "Then what you see is the landscape, and not the architecture of the house. Ideally, you want the landscape to complement the house, not overtake it."

Sometimes the best solution is to remove everything and start over, especially if plants are unhealthy or weather-damaged. Landscapers agree that old yew shrubs that have become too massive or sport the sculpted "bowling ball" look should be rejuvenated or replaced.

In other cases, says Anchor Landscaping's Sean McGuan, plants may be cut back, or moved to a better spot.

Shaker resident Judith Siegel, owner of The Plant Manager, often recommends compact or dwarf varieties of tried-and-true favorites that will stay the right size and shape under a front bay window without pruning. She cautions homeowners always to remember the scale of the home and property. "A two- or three-foot shrub on a 40- or 50-foot setback looks like you haven't done anything."

Out: Laissez-faire maintenance.

In: Cutting grass, raking leaves, edging beds, and pulling weeds.

The most dazzling design will have no impact if the yard is not maintained. This is especially important when putting your home on the market, according to savvy Shaker home sales experts.

Karen Tucker of RE/MAX HomeSource says these simple chores "give a fresh, clean, visual impression. Buyers will have a positive mindset as they go through the door."

Moreover, an untidy yard may discourage buyers from even setting foot on the property, warns Cathy LeSueur of Howard Hanna Smythe Cramer. "If it's overgrown, they will assume that that's how the house is maintained."

From a financial standpoint, these realtors agree that landscaping changes should be done for the enjoyment of the current owners, rather than as an investment. "Any project that's going to allow the yard to be utilized, such as a patio or a nice play area, yes, you might get your money out," advises Liz Nuechterlein of Realty One Real Living. "But do these things for you and your family to enjoy while you're there."

LeSueur says certain landscaping, such as eliminating grass, may actually deter some buyers, "You'll lose buyers who have small children if you don't have grass," she believes.

On the other hand, she says that lighting and irrigation systems often are attractive to buyers of larger properties.

Out: Broken, buried, missing, or insufficient hardscape.

In: Patios, porches, curved walkways, raised beds, walls and fences in stone, brick, wood, and other natural materials.

Most landscapers working in Shaker Heights like to use existing and/or reclaimed sandstone – the "homeowner's gold lurking behind everybody's garage," as Marty McGuan of Anchor laughingly puts it.

Many other natural materials are available to add shape, color, and texture to the hardscape, while remaining in keeping with Shaker's architectural styles, says Jim Freireich.

"The sky's the limit," he says, when it comes to creating outdoor rooms, including kitchens, spas, putting greens, or even a bocce court. Lighting adds a dramatic nighttime touch.

Often the pros are called in to correct serious defects, such as drainage problems, sunken patios, and dangerously uneven steps or walkways. Sometimes they like to throw in a few curves while they're at it, in contrast to the formal English-garden symmetry of yesteryear.

Shaggy, unkempt evergreens gone wild around the home's foundation are out. Neatly pruned shrubs and trees in beds located throughout the property are in.

Out: Incorrectly planted trees and shrubs.

In: Location, location, location.

That means planting the right plant in the right spot to meet its soil, water, and light requirements. Following this guideline will result in a lower-maintenance yard.

“After three years, the plants should be established enough so they can thrive with what nature provides,” says Sean McGuan.

Restored To Glory, DIY Style

BY BETH FRIEDMAN-ROMMEL

When the Weiss family moved into their 1931 Ingraham French Normandy home in March of 2004, “it needed work inside and out,” Erica recalls. The front yard featured the ubiquitous enormous yew bushes and a few rhododendrons thrown in, along with some nice mature trees. The back suffered from a collapsing brick porch, soil erosion, and the twin eyesores of an ugly fence and low-hanging power lines.

Erica began in back by having the power lines buried and planting a line of blue spruces along the fence. She also hired contractors to “clean out and level the back.” They discovered the ruins of a beautiful sandstone patio buried underneath the brush.

They reused the stone to build two new patios. While she has not finalized plans for the backyard yet, a new porch, retaining wall, and water feature are on her wish list. She also dreams of perennial beds and a vegetable garden, once she finds a suitably sunny spot.

Erica, an artist by profession (see Shaker Life, January/February 2006), also envisioned a colorful and textured front yard. Unfortunately, they lost three huge trees in the winter storms. Then her husband David “went wild with a chain saw one day” and cut up the overgrown shrubbery. After hiring landscapers to rip out the roots and prepare planting beds, Erica had the blank palate she desired.

With help from her mother and a lot of gardening books, Erica came up with a simple design emphasizing color and four-season interest.

“We decided to frame the house a little bit and show off the windows. We planted a larger-size weeping cherry, with evergreens and miniature holly around it. Then there’s Korean viburnum that smells wonderful – we’ll have a lot of white and whitish pink flowers in the spring.”

For fall color, Erica chose Japanese maples with bright red leaves.

It’s obviously a work in progress, but Erica is very happy with the results so far.

On the other hand, Scott and Celeste Gordon’s cozy wood-and-stone colonial in Sussex came with an almost unheard-of bonus – the plans for the original landscape design.

Built in 1934, the house was extravagantly landscaped. When the Gordons took possession four years ago, the plant material was completely overgrown and obscuring what remained of the hardscape.

Scott began digging around, and thus began a restoration odyssey.

“Much to my surprise, I found the original remnants of the stone walls buried in there. Some were too wrapped in roots, but I was able to pull up lots of the stone.”

"A garden is better than a mirror for revealing yourself." —Anon.

Since then Scott has enjoyed bringing the front and back yards "back to spec," with charming results. He's used most of the same perennials, added an herb garden, and recycled the stone, but admits to a bit of "poetic license" here and there when it comes to curved retaining walls and adding a swing to the backyard arbor.

That goes for the brick and stone patio too, which "looks like it's been there 50 years," even though it wasn't on the original plan. Scott collected the materials entirely from demolition and construction sites. It took two years to collect them, and has become a bit of an obsession.

"I found out there's a bricker club where you can exchange bricks, but you're not allowed to buy them. One brick came from the patio of the home my wife grew up in, which was originally from the Chicago Centennial of 1893. I also got a unique yellow brick from the chimney of my first house." The collection includes bricks from towns all over Ohio, Kentucky, and Michigan.

"Thank God I'm not paying ten bucks a brick on e-bay...yet," he remarks.

It's been a labor of love for Scott, who has done all the planning and almost all the work himself. "I'm fortunate, because our house is pretty picturesque, and had a lot of nice features to start with."

The Countertop That Fits On Top

the art of persistence

Rose Wong, mistress of Pearl of the Orient, has been way up, way down, bloodied and bowed, and has recovered and prevailed. In short, she's a classic American success story.

BY SUE STARRETT

Building A Restaurant

She left Hong Kong for Iowa in 1971, with two suitcases and $400. She was headed for Ottumwa Heights College, where her older sister Margaret had enrolled. Rose Wong devoted every minute to her studies, or to the jobs she held to help with expenses.

Twice she applied to the convent, but was not accepted because she wasn't a citizen. Instead, she earned bachelor's and master's degrees in graphic design at the University of Iowa, in pursuit of her calling to be an artist. She entered the University's Master of Fine Arts and continued working as a waitress to pay the bills.

In the meantime Margaret had moved to Cleveland to work at a law firm and conceived the idea of opening a restaurant. While Rose at first declined her sister's invitation to run the restaurant, she did agree to design it.

Two months into construction, all the money had been spent.

Margaret insisted that Rose buy a skirt and learn to walk in high heels in preparation for asking a bank officer for a loan.

"I couldn't talk to people without looking at the floor," Rose says. No loans were forthcoming.

Forest City Enterprises managed the Shaker Heights property where the restaurant, Pearl of the Orient, was to be located, so Rose and Margaret boldly turned to the company's leader for guidance – Albert Ratner, perhaps Cleveland's most powerful business figure.

"The Ratner family saved us. I told them 'I will succeed' because there was no doubt in my mind. I had no other choice. In our family, we do what we have to do; we keep at it!"

Ratner helped them secure the bank loans and the construction proceeded. In 1978 Pearl of the Orient opened at Van Aken Center as the first Northern Chinese and Szechuan restaurant in Cleveland. Twenty-five-year-old Rose Wong was in charge.

Candace Sheffler's class in forensic science teaches young students that there are no answer keys in real life.

BY JAYNE EIBEN

PHOTOS BY KEVIN REEVES

On a clear Tuesday morning after a long Labor Day weekend, the sixth grade students in Candace Sheffler's second-period science class settle into their seats at Woodbury School. Sheffler is the sort of teacher kids respond to and love – young, attractive, warm, and enthusiastic while also smart and genuine. But even she's having trouble enlivening this post-holiday bunch.

She explains to the class they'll be starting a new unit about the scientific process, DNA, and forensics. The class sits passively. One boy mumbles to himself that it sounds boring.

Sheffler takes the apathetic response in stride. She knows from experience that within minutes this group will be fully engaged.

The class walks into the science lab next door where they discover a yellow caution tape partitioning off a 12-by-14 foot "crime scene," complete with the outline of a human body, footprints, half-filled cups of Diet Pepsi, thumb tacks, guitar picks, and other scattered evidence.

The students' eyes brighten and backs straighten, and suddenly the holiday weekend seems long past. The children immediately grasp that it will be their job over the next several class periods to solve a fictional crime. Who has time for daydreaming about summer when there's a crime to solve?

Sheffler has taught this class for several years. She found it in a teachers' guide called Mystery Festival, offering crime-solving activities as teaching tools. Every year she hesitates before including it in her curriculum. Does she really want to give up half of Labor Day setting up the crime scene and work late into the night preparing labs to test the evidence? But her hesitation does not last for more than a moment.

Thornton Park

The Long View

The Thornton Park Master Plan (Draft) redesigns the 13 acre park to address some of the needs identified in the Assessment. It is a guide for redevelopment, and allows the proposed changes to occur in one or more phases.

The estimated cost to implement the entire Thornton Park Plan is $4.5 million, excluding the cost of the pool.

Master Plan Design (Draft) Recommendations

Most improvements and activities are located in the center of the park, leaving the periphery for activities such as walking, picnicking, and sledding. Space has been reserved to reinforce existing buffers and to create new buffers between the park and its neighbors.

Draft Master Plan

Shaker Heights City Council is expected to choose a pool renovation plan in mid-March. Look for the first signs of construction in late summer/early fall of this year. A newly renovated pool will reopen in summer 2007.

What's it All About?

In 2004, the City undertook the Recreation and Leisure Assessment. Its purpose was to convene a broad community conversation about ways to enhance all aspects of recreation and leisure amenities within the City and to develop a plan to address those needs.

In 2005, after 16 meetings (including three large public meetings) in which over 500 people participated, and following deliberation by a citizen task force, the process was completed. The top three priorities that emerged included:

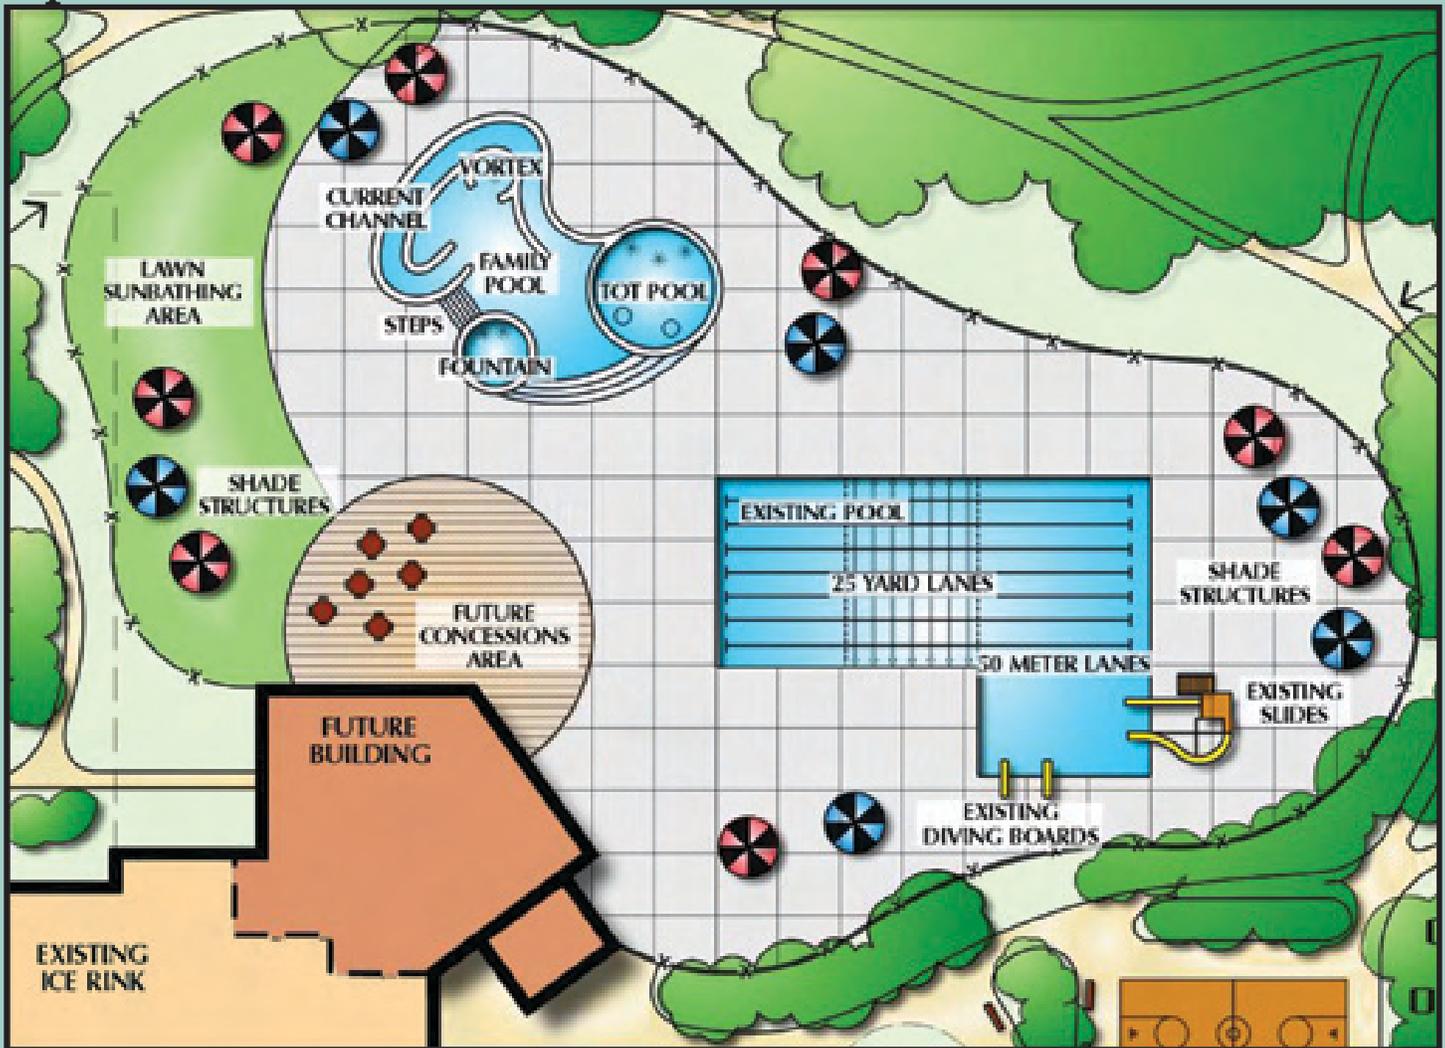

1. Improve/repair fields
2. Improve the pool
3. Add/link trails

The Recreation and Leisure Assessment made specific recommendations for a multi-purpose park at Thornton. It called for a long-term Thornton Park Plan (see plan at left) to transform the park into a diversified and attractive multi-purpose facility. It also called for repair and improvement of the pool; redesign of vehicle access, parking, landscaping, and buffering; adding basketball and skateboard facilities; and connection to a trail system. A medium-term goal was to explore the potential for adding a second ice rink.

- Several items remain largely unchanged, notably location of the ice rink and 50 meter pool.
- The pool is the centerpiece and focal point, regardless of redesign option (see following pages).
- The primary entrance to the park is moved to Warrensville Center Rd.
- Parking is moved to areas directly adjacent to Warrensville Center and Farnsleigh roads. Two paved lots accommodate the same number of cars as the current lot and a grassy parking area absorbs overflow.
- A 2/3-mile gravel walking path system winds through the park, connecting park amenities, and providing access to Warrensville Center and Farnsleigh roads and beyond into the community.
- A building addition to the existing ice rink houses a new entrance/lobby for both the rink and the pool. It contains a new concession area, restrooms, and pool equipment. Space is reserved next to the existing ice rink for a second sheet of ice.
- A new playground area, basketball court, and picnic area are added along the west side of the park. An enhanced sledding hill slopes down from the picnic area to Farnsleigh Rd.
- A skate park is built into the area on top of the old sledding hill, directly south of the pool. Landscaping and earth mounding are used to provide buffering around the skate park.
- A new picnic pavilion is located near two existing tennis courts. The picnic area is accessible from the walking path.

Option A

The Short View

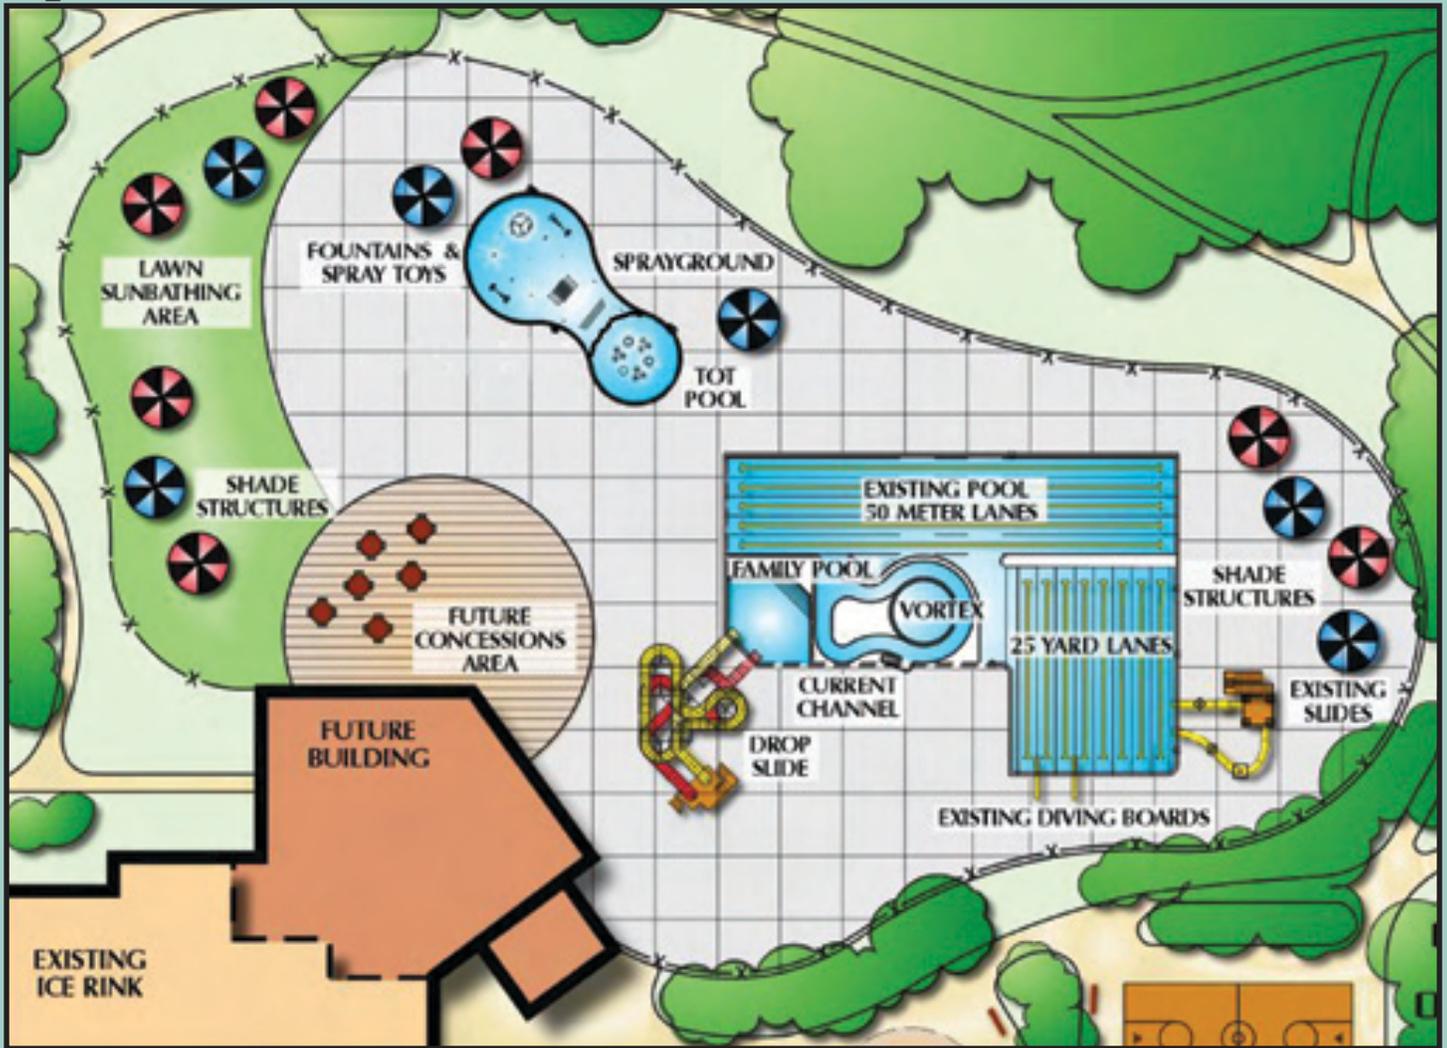

Pool Design Options

All pool design options maintain the current location of the existing competitive pool. The deck area surrounding the pool is slightly enlarged and a grassy lawn sunbathing area is added. Additional shade structures provide relief from the sun in a variety of locations around the pool. A chair lift for the disabled and new ladders provide safe and easy access to the competitive pool.

Pool Option A Design Features

- Estimated cost of $3.3 million
- Estimated lifespan: Repair of existing pool: 15 years; New family pool: 30 years
- Repair of the existing 50-meter competitive pool (maintains existing 50-meter and 25-yard lanes).
- Addition of a new family pool with several leisure/play features, including:
 - Tot pool
 - Fountain
 - Current channel for water walking

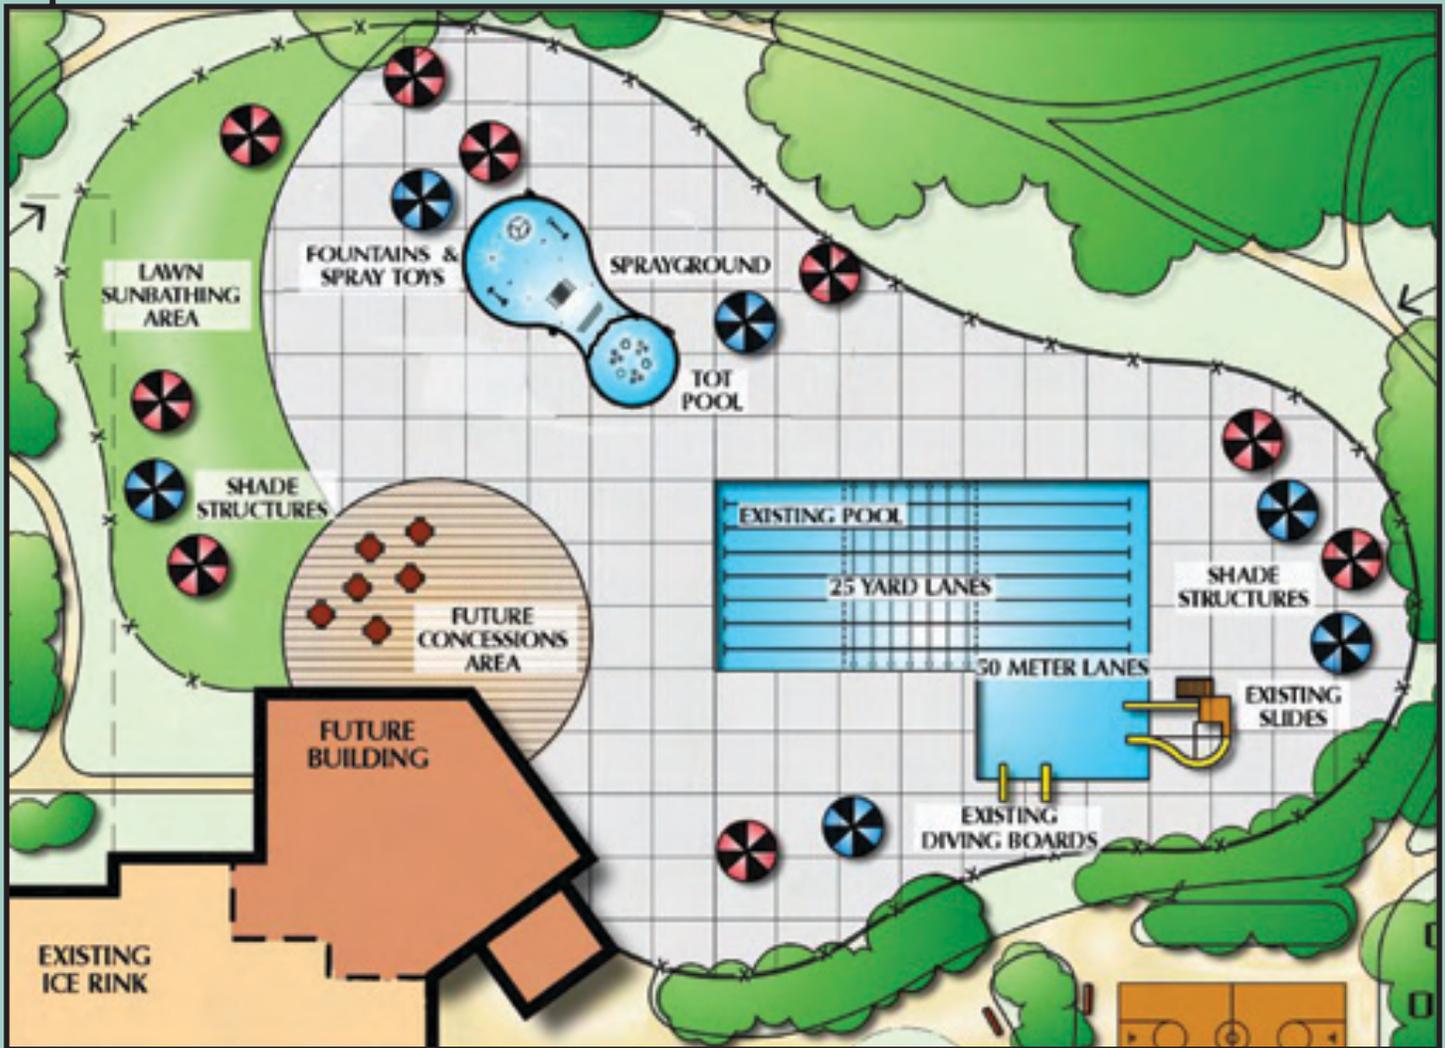

Option B

Pool Option B Design Features

- Estimated cost of $2.3 million
- Estimated lifespan: repair of existing pool: 15 years;
New sprayground: 30 years
- Repair of the existing 50-meter competitive pool.
- Addition of several family leisure/play features to the existing competitive pool, including:
 - A bulkhead to allow simultaneous use of 25-yard lanes and 50-meter lanes
 - Two slides
 - Current channel for water walking
 - Underwater bench
- Addition of a sprayground (water playground) with children's play features, including:
 - Tot pool
 - Fountains
 - Water toys

Option C

Pool Option C Design Features

- Estimated cost of $1.5 million
- Estimated lifespan: Repair of existing pool: 15 years; New sprayground: 30 years
- Repair of the existing 50-meter competitive pool (maintains existing 50-meter and 25-yard lanes).
- Addition of a sprayground (water playground) with children's play features, including:
 - Tot pool
 - Fountains
 - Water toys

Public Swimming Schedule

EARLY SEASON: May 27-June 10

REGULAR SEASON: June 11-August 13

LATE SEASON: August 14-Labor Day

(Pool closes at 6 p.m. on July 4)

NOTE: Season could be shortened due to pool construction

A calendar with dates and hours of operation is available at the front office, cashier booth and the pool first aid office after May 22. The City of Shaker Heights retains the right to make adjustments in daily operating hours, close the pool due to cold or inclement weather or when the temperature is below 65 degrees (lap swimming may still be available).

Regulation swimwear is required. Only United States Coast Guard-approved flotation devices may be used.

NOTE: Beginning Wednesday, June 19, the five-foot section will be available to swimmers from 10 a.m. to noon. Swimmers are asked to be considerate of those taking lessons in adjacent sections.

REST PERIOD

During open swim, noon-7 p.m., there will be a 15-minute rest period every hour. Adults age 18 and over may swim laps and children three years and under, accompanied by an adult, may swim in the three-foot section. Pool management, based upon pool attendance, retains the right to determine rest periods.

Swimming Pool Season Passes

Season passholders receive admission to general swimming, lap swims, and discounts on Learn-to-Swim classes. A family pass includes children under age 21. Shaker Home Landscaping

Peace of Nature's Jen Braman says that she sees many young trees in Shaker yards slowly suffocating because they have been planted too deeply under mounds she calls "mulch volcanoes."

"The root flare needs to be at the surface, so the tree can get oxygen. If the tree looks like a pencil stuck in the ground, it's planted too deeply," Braman explains.

Landscapers warn to avoid planting shade trees too close to the house or underneath power lines. Roots can play havoc with foundations, and we'd all like to avoid the sight of more "topped" trees pruned by the power company.

Out: Exotic, high-maintenance plantings.

In: Native plant species that provide four-seasons of beauty and habitat for wildlife.

Native plants are drought-, disease-, and insect-resistant, and adapted to our growing conditions, notes Joshua Tooker of The Pattie Group. Natives are often less expensive than exotics and require less maintenance.

There are hundreds, perhaps thousands, of natives, from large trees – silver maple, black walnut, white oak – to vines and groundcover, including Virginia creeper, trumpet honeysuckle, and phlox. Small native trees in many Shaker yards include dogwood, crabapple, and sumac. Popular low-growing perennials include violets, bellflowers, and evening primrose.

"Not all natives need the sunny strip near your driveway and look great for only a week in June," says Judith Siegel. Siegel looks for combinations of indigenous prairie, woodland, and wetland plants for the different sites she encounters.

Siegel and Tooker both provide native plant consultation services through The Nature Center at Shaker Lakes.

Out: Limiting landscaping elements to greenery.

In: Water features, arbors, furniture, statues, artwork, boulders, and kids' stuff create surprise, visual interest, and comfort.

Ponds and waterfalls create tranquility for humans and habitat for wildlife, but have not caught on yet in a big way here, laments Sean McGuan.

For families with young children, who may not want a water feature for safety reasons, Jen Braman likes to create little reading nooks and secret places throughout the yard for her clients.

"We can hollow out the shrubs a bit, tuck a little home-built platform with some beanbags or outdoor carpeting, and give the kids a space of their own." Multi-sensory children's gardens are another of Braman's specialties.

Art plays a key role in Judith Siegel's own garden, which features several large, whimsical copper statues. "Art enhances the vertical element," she explains. "We also use an arbor to create the illusion of depth because my back yard is so long and skinny."

Art doesn't have to be fancy, say the McGuan brothers, who are both dads and elementary school teachers when they're not landscaping. They look just about everywhere for found objects to recycle into statuary.

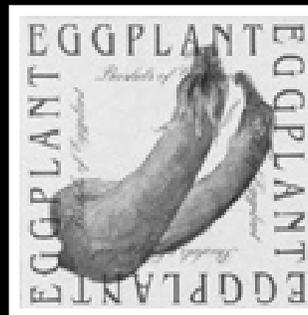

Out: Blowing your budget.

In: Careful planning and patience.

Landscaping changes can cost anywhere from a few bucks for flowers to tens of thousands of dollars for elaborate installations on large properties. The professionals interviewed for this story emphasize working within a budget and spreading projects over several years if necessary. Many landscapers will also create a design for you to install yourself.

A Cleveland Original In More Ways Than Wong

Rose Wong may claim she has cut back on her community-based activities to focus more on business and relax a little bit, but her strong will and competitive spirit have not allowed her to relax for too long. She has emerged as one of the more influential board members of Cleveland Originals, which is the local chapter of the Council of Independent Restaurants of America.

And, true to her nature, she comes out swinging. “We’re fighting the chains,” she says. “We have goals based on raising public awareness about independent restaurants, but we’re really about stopping the spread of the chains in Northeast Ohio.”

Indeed, the avowed purpose of Cleveland Originals is “to protect, nurture and promote” local independent restaurants. Notice how the verbs in that mission statement are ordered.

Cleveland Originals has some 60 members. In Shaker Heights they include Pearl of the Orient, Matsu Japanese Restaurant, the Italian Café, J. Pistone Market and Gathering Place, and Noggin’s Riviera Grille – formerly Noggin’s Raw Bar & Pub, now operating under new owners.

In the Shaker Square-Larchmere neighborhood they include Boulevard Blue, Fire Food and Drink, Dewey’s Coffee House, Yours Truly, and Savara at Shaker Square – the latter being Sergio Abramof’s latest restaurante de Brasil. Abramof, owner of Sergio’s in University Circle, is the current president of Cleveland Originals.

What’s in it for you? The Cleveland Originals website features discount coupons for member restaurants. The coupons are for $25 and $50, and cost only 40 percent of their face value. “If you eat out a lot, you can get really good deals on our website,” Rose says.

True, with a caveat: The coupons are offered only once every three months and are frequently sold out – at every member restaurant. Clevelandoriginals.com
Good luck.

– Rory O’Connor

Local Legends: Rose Wong

The décor and the food were groundbreaking in every way.

“It was the first Chinese restaurant in the area without dragons and lanterns. I wanted the design to be timeless and used neutral colors – no red or green,” Rose says.

Except that her mother insisted that red be used for good luck, and so Rose incorporated the color in several areas. And she placed her own art – studies of light and movement – on the walls.

Pearl of the Orient served neither chop suey nor egg fu young. Many customers had difficulty understanding the exotic menu and finding a familiar dish to order.

Pearl of the Orient ad, 1984.

“The restaurant offered real Chinese food, not American Chinese food,” says Terry Kovel, the well-known antiques expert and one of Rose’s long-time friends. “There was no good place to eat in Shaker Heights at that time, and Pearl was a gourmet restaurant.”

About a year after Pearl opened, Patricia Weitzel, Cleveland Magazine’s influential restaurant critic, gave Pearl a rave review. But success was not immediately kind to Rose.

"All of a sudden, lines were out the door. We couldn't handle it. It was the worst time in my life," says Rose. Then the two chefs she brought here from Boston left to open their own restaurant, taking the cooks along with them.

In time, she and her staff adjusted not only to the increase in customers, but also opened a second Pearl of the Orient, in Rocky River, in 1984, and launched catering services at both restaurants.

Building a Name

Rose ascended to the top ranks among local restaurateurs, a figure to be reckoned with, like Carl Quagliatta, Zack Bruell, or Sergio Abramof.

She became a community activist. She joined all the right clubs and organizations, and served on prestigious boards such as the Cleveland Institute of Music (where she still serves) and the Cleveland Botanical Gardens.

Being witty, beautiful, and smart, and a bit salty and opinionated, she was on everyone's A list for soirées and community events.

But her real passion was The Amethyst Grille, which she opened next door to Pearl and which featured haute cuisine unlike any in Cleveland at the time.

The Amethyst ultimately failed. This would be a decisive point in her life, but until that happened, the once-shy Rose Wong, riding high, became cocky and over-confident.

"The great reviews and awards went to my head." She began drinking too much. Her family's admonitions led her to Alcoholics Anonymous and recovery.

Toughness, persistence, and recovery are in the Wong family's bones. Rose's parents had left China for Hong Kong during the communist revolution, after World War II. They and the rest of their family – daughter Cecilia and son George – eventually came to Cleveland at Rose's and Margaret's urging. In 1986 the three Wong sisters bought homes in Shaker Heights.

"Shaker has the best schools in the country. That's the reason we all moved here," Rose says.

Rose and her husband, Bernard Lee, have two daughters, Theresa Lee, who is at Dartmouth and Catherine Lee, who is at Cornell. Rose, Margaret, Cecilia, George, and their families share dinner weekly.

Over the course of her remarkable career, Rose and the Pearl of the Orient have garnered acclaim and numerous awards from local and national publications, redounding positively on Shaker Heights.

Along the way, Rose became an accomplished chef and cooking teacher. The Amethyst Grille was recognized with state and national American Institute of Architects awards, and was named best new restaurant in America by Esquire magazine.

Ironically, Rose had to close the Amethyst Grille soon after that. She attributes the failure to yet another Cleveland Magazine review – a "horrible, mocking" review by a local alternative press personality – after which, Rose says, business began a steady decline.

The Amethyst's demise put Rose back on her heels for a long time. After years of building a name, she felt the restaurant's failure caused her "to lose face. That's a disaster in Chinese culture. In my family, we just don't fail."

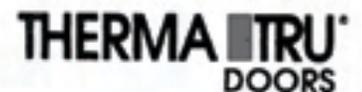

Rose withdrew from much of her extracurricular community-based activity to reassess her life. "I can't take anything for granted. I wonder why I'm not still a waitress. Somehow I got on the right path." And she has continued to build her food empire. In 1995 she started a catering business apart from Pearl – The Catering Company – whose success keeps her constantly busy. (It does not do Chinese food, by the way; Pearl's catering service handles that.)

And she is a prominent board member of the recently formed Cleveland Originals, a group of owners of local independent restaurants.

The tough lessons she has learned have taught her not merely to be cautious, but to come to grips "with what's really important." For instance, she grows amazing dahlias and decorates Pearl of the Orient with them. The flowers are famous among her customers, some of whom find themselves leaving the restaurant with a beautiful flower on a summer night.

CSI: Woodbury

“Too many kids are afraid of science or don’t enjoy it,” she says. “This unit gives them a chance to think like real scientists, and it sets the tone for labs for the rest of the year.”

CSI students Marissa Miller, Johnny Woodson, and Sarah Russo caught up in the drama of Sheffler’s class.

Watson, the Game’s Afoot!

The students ask what happened, and Sheffler points out that asking that very question is the first step in the scientific method. Sixth graders can be jumpy, enthusiastic, and prone to silliness. But this group – from the moment they see the yellow caution tape – behaves like a team of serious scientists. They act more like (short) high school students than sixth graders.

Several of the students give up their recess periods over the next few days to carefully evaluate the evidence. Though not surprised by their level of interest and seriousness, Sheffler cannot help being delighted.

The goals for the unit include learning how to observe and gather data, organizing data, determining the difference between hard evidence and inference, and experiments with specific purposes.

Had Sheffler revealed these goals at the outset, her students likely would have stifled yawns. But like a healthy cereal that also tastes good, Sheffler’s unit combines robust education with lots of fun. It also complies with the new sixth-grade state benchmark standards, demonstrating that there’s still plenty of room for creative teaching.

The students quickly learn that forensic science means analyzing evidence that could be used in a court of law. In order to be admissible in court, evidence must be handled properly and pertinent observations methodically recorded in written notes.

On the first day, Sheffler divides the crime scene into eight equal areas. Wearing rubber gloves and armed with note cards for recording their observations, the students break up into small groups to examine, map, and analyze the sections. The young investigators discover from markings on the can that the Diet

Pepsi expired two months ago. They observe that what looks like blood is still wet – and that a white towel has a distinct perfume-like scent.

As the students carefully remove and record evidence, they take care not to bump into each other. Working cooperatively, the different groups express disappointment when their time is up and the class ends. Zoe Steenbergh laments, “I wish we could have science all day.”

On their way out, everyone agrees the class was “cool” and “fun.” After promising not to ruin the surprise of the crime scene for the next group, the student scientists reluctantly move on to their next class.

On the second day, the class learns the name of the victim – a young man named Felix Navidad who had been hosting a party with four friends at his beach house when the alleged murder occurred. His body disappeared on the way to the morgue. All four of the friends, including Alfredo Fettucini and Kendra Goode, are under investigation as suspects.

“Don’t jump to conclusions based on initial observations,” Sheffler reminds the class. The date on the can of Diet Pepsi found at the crime scene indicates the pop had expired: fact. The can looks like it came from a recycling bin: opinion.

“Learn the difference between fact and inference,” Sheffler tells the students. “Somebody’s guilt or innocence may depend upon it.”

After the crime scene investigation, the class begins analyzing the evidence. At various labs set up throughout the room, small groups conduct experiments on the evidence for the next several days. The students discover that the DNA of the hair on the comb matches that of the victim. The fibers found at the crime scene are cotton, consistent with the sweater worn by Kendra. The water from the ice cube tray at the crime scene has a puzzling pH of 10, compared with tap water with a pH of 7. They evaluate finger prints and handwriting samples. They check the colognes and perfumes worn by each suspect and compare them to the scent found on the towel.

After carefully evaluating all the evidence, the students analyze each suspect in relation to the evidence. Discussing the findings as a class reinforces cooperation and requires higher levels of critical thinking. They determine which evidence could be described as “hard” (fingerprints and writing samples), “shaky” (unconfirmed alibis), or “unimportant” (the tacks and guitar picks).

Based on their discoveries and analyses, two strong suspects emerge: Kendra Goode and Alfredo Fettucini. They will stand trial the next day.

Alfredo Fettucini in the Den with the Candlestick?

For their day in court, the students assume roles as suspects, witnesses, attorneys, and even a bailiff. All remaining students play the jury. Sheffler is judge. The class buzzes excitedly in preparation. The sober scientists of the previous week have metamorphosed into eager participants in a courtroom drama. They’re loud, enthusiastic, animated – and remarkably focused.

Acting out a courtroom drama does not at first seem like a science activity. “That’s the point,” explains Sheffler. “The unit is cross-curricular.” In addition to evaluating scientific data, the students learn the importance of verbally communicating and recording their findings.

“Scientists must communicate, defend, share, and at times publish their findings,” she tells the class. “Otherwise, what good is your research if nobody knows about it?”

Homework over the next several nights includes a writing project where the students must choose one of the following: writing a letter of confession from one of the suspects explaining motive and opportunity, writing a detective’s report on the evidence, or writing a newspaper story about the case.

Sheffler has discovered much about her students by the time the trial begins. “It is fun to watch their personalities emerge,” she says while watching the children work in groups preparing for trial. “They all get to shine in different areas.”

During the trial, the student attorneys grill the suspects. Jurors ask additional questions. The judge reminds the jurors not to let their personal opinions about a suspect interfere with looking at the hard evidence. She reminds them that the awesome responsibility of determining guilt or innocence is in their hands.

As each witness is sworn in and the questioning commences, every student stays glued to the lively proceedings. When class ends, Sheffler tells them that in a real trial the questioning goes on for days. Wishing they too could keep on going for days, the students pack up and leave for their next class.

When the trial ends the next day, the jurors begin deliberating. By the end of class the jury has yet to reach a determination, so the judge advises them to sleep on it and to reconvene in the morning. The next day, the one holdout on the jury has changed her mind and a verdict is reached.

“What find you?” asks the judge. “We find the defendants Kendra Goode and Alfredo Fettucini guilty of the murder of Felix Navidad,” a juror announces with conviction.

The judge sentences the defendants to life in prison and the class cheers. The boy who had initially thought the unit sounded boring cheers loudest of all.

They want to know: Did they get it right? Mrs. Sheffler tells them that there is no right or wrong decision, no answer key. The goal, she says, is to for them to form their own conclusions based on analysis of the evidence. Students learn a discomfoting but valuable truth: There are no answer keys in real life crimes, or in other real life situations.

“Sometimes it’s nice to learn without an answer key,” Sheffler says, cheerfully waving farewell to her second-period class.

Woodbury detectives Matthew Wood and Lawrence James assess the crime scene evidence.

Choose South Pointe for GI Diagnosis and Surgery.

For those who suffer from severe gastrointestinal conditions and illnesses, such as lactose intolerance, ice cream can elicit pain and discomfort – a scream of “NO!” Instead of “Please may I.”

Accurate diagnosis is critical to effective treatment. South Pointe leads the way with two new technologies that allow for faster, more accurate and less intrusive diagnoses of gastrointestinal illnesses. South Pointe is the only area community hospital that currently employs these technologies.

The new Bravo pH Capsule Monitoring System is the most sensitive method yet for directly detecting esophageal reflux (heartburn), quantifying it and correlating symptoms with reflux events.

New Capsule Endoscopy, a tiny camera within a capsule, which when swallowed, provides physicians with detailed images of the entire small intestine. Until now, gaining this crucial information has involved uncomfortable, six-plus hour procedures.

Choose South Pointe for Surgery. Visit southpointehospital.org to see and find out more about these break-through technologies.

Robinson Painting

IF you feel the work ethic has all but disappeared, and integrity is noticeably lacking in the work area, then you need to try Robinson Painting. We still take pride in our work, and integrity is the core of our business.

– Cleve Robinson

Meticulous preparation is absolutely essential to getting an excellent paint job. It is onerous work but we do it gladly, for we want our paint job to last.

Here is our procedure: power wash with TSP cleaning solution (harmless to plants); remove peeling and cracking paint by scraping, heat gun, power sanding or hand sanding; where necessary, carefully glaze and apply caulk to windows.

The house is now properly prepared and ready for us to apply a good primer/sealer, where necessary, and top off with the best paint money can buy. You then have a high quality paint job that will last for a good many years.

Robinson Painting has been an interior and exterior painting contractor for more than thirty years. We have a crew of trustworthy and courteous craftsmen, many with us for ten years or more, who know their jobs well and who work together as a tightly knit team. Also, for your protection, we are insured and bonded.

We derive great pleasure from a job well done, leaving our customers beaming with pride and great satisfaction. We love our work, so we give it all we've got!

creativity.
It all begins with a spark.

You can feel it in the hallways and the classrooms, the laboratories and the athletic fields. Something is different here. It crackles. It pulses. It's unique to HB, and it's no accident.

The Real Rite of Spring – Mass Procrastination

BY JOHN R. BRANDT

One of the pleasures of Shaker Heights is the beauty of its landscaping, especially the parts of it completed by others for your viewing pleasure (Ah, Shaker Man mused last summer over a cup of steaming joe, What a nice rock wall our neighbors have put in across the street. Thank God I didn't have to do it.) Alas, community expectations being what they are, Shaker Man and other green-challenged individuals again will be forced by their spouses to labor on their own lawns this spring for the benefit of others. As a public service, then, Shaker Observer offers this guide to the three P's of successful (non) landscaping:

Planning: Every good project begins with planning, and for Shaker Man, there can never be enough of it. Planning involves inspiration, endless lists, brightly colored catalogs and even scale drawings (done with colored pencils obtained solely for this purpose) but no sweat or sore muscles. In his best years, Shaker Man has been able to extend the planning season well into June, resulting in a yard best described as Almost:

"That's where we almost planted peonies, but by the time I got to the nursery..."

"That's where the kids were going to put in a vegetable garden, but it rained on Memorial Day..."

"That's where I was going to build a deck, but my back..."

This year, however, Ms. Shaker Man has a different plan.

"Honey," our hero says one Saturday morning, "Where are my landscaping pencils?"

"I put them in the garage."

"And you did that because—"

"I wanted you to feel inspired."

Which he does, sort of, after he finds his beloved pencils duct-taped to the handle of a rake, directly across from a shovel with its own duct-taped bottle of Tylenol.

"Have fun planning," she calls from the back door. "Ring the doorbell if you need a glass of water."

Purchasing: Another key weapon of mass procrastination for Shaker Man. "You can't do the job right if don't have the right tools," he lectures his children each time he starts a home project. Not coincidentally, finding the right tool usually requires a visit to the right store.

"I think you just don't want to put in the shrubs," opines Shaker Man's helpful 13-year-old daughter. "I think you're just going to the store so you can put it off until next weekend. Or forever."

Adds Ms. Shaker Man: "I didn't say a word."

Planting: If Shaker Man learned nothing else from two long, hot summers on landscaping crews as a youth, he did retain the industry's most important lesson: Never, ever turn over a shovel of dirt yourself if you can get somebody else to do it for you. For the well-to-do, this means hiring a swarm of landscapers, gardeners, tree-trimmers, snowplowers, and leaf-wranglers. For the middle class, this means hiring teenage boys for what is possibly the only useful purpose they serve in the world between the ages of 14 and 21. For Shaker Man, it means trying to trick his children into helping.

"Don't you want the yard to look pretty?" he asks his daughter.

"Dad," says Thirteen. "I'm not four years old. I know you're just trying to get me to do the planting."

"Yes, but—"

"I have homework," she says. "You don't want me to fail, do you?"

"Well, I don't think—" he says, but she has already marched upstairs and slammed a door.

He has more luck with Nine, using the lure of allowing his son to operate massive new power tools.

"I'll do it all," says Nine. "I'll put in the gas and set it up and everything. You promise you won't do anything without me?"

"You can come with me to the store." Nine looks triumphantly at his sister. "We'll get the RIGHT tool and do the job RIGHT."

"That's my boy," says Shaker Man.

Thirteen rolls her eyes.

Unfortunately for Shaker Man, Nine's enthusiasm for the job, RIGHT or otherwise, is even less impressive than his own. Not even the thrill of a titanium-plated, remote-start WeedWhacker-TurboMonster 5500 lawn trimmer – $439.95 in 12 easy installments – can hold Nine's interest for more than two minutes.

"This is boring"

"I thought you wanted to help."

Nine puts a hand to his chin, wrinkles his brow, and then says, "Nope."

"But—"

Offers Ms. Shaker Man from the back door: "That's your boy, all right."
